Rean schwarzer age

Put it on hold, it looks like Millium wants to tell you something. Hey, hey, hey, hey, hey, hey, White Rabbit here! Lammy scanned this article and said it contains unmarked spoilers for all Trails games. Turn back now if you don't want to get a laser! All right, bye! Ashen Chevalier[JP 1]Ashen Awakener May, S.1186[Additional 1] Instructor, LeevesAlumnus Thors Fishing, Visiting Hot Springs Tea, Fishing, snowboarding, hot springs and his family 173 cm (CS1, CS2)178 cm (CS3)[Additional 2] Lilak (normal)Red (ogre) Black (normal)White (ogre) Tachi Fire, Time Slash Thrust Pierce Strike Strike S — Tachi Slash Trails Push dash Strike SS ———— Rean Schwarzenegger ア (騎騎はいいろ 灰 , is the protagonist of Cold Steel Steel , II, III and IV. He will be introduced as a class VII member of thors military academy. The profile of Rean was raised against the son of Schwarzer Barony in the northern region of Erebonia. He enrolls in thors military academy at the age of 17, where he deepens his ties with his friends as a Class VII center. He will then be chosen as the Awakening and become known ashen Chevalier. After graduating from Thors, he takes up a class VII instructor: special operations on thors branch campus. Pointing to their students, Rean teams up with his old friends to deal with a disaster that captures the entire empire and the surrounding nations. As the saga unfolds, he learns the details surrounding his birth, how he ended up as the baron's adopted son and the unknown power that is within him, which, at the mercy of fate, contributes to his growth as a man. A personality of Kind, sociable, easygoing and modest guilt, Rean is about as upright as they come. He is incredibly supportive, often helping people (friends or otherwise) with their various problems, often going through extreme lengths to fill out applications. He is a born leader, often taking the initiative when a group faces a problem, relying on their good instincts and deductive thinking skills to get through them. But despite putting a confident front, Rean has a shockingly small amount of self-esteem, often tough on himself and trying to spread credit to others. He also can't reconcile the love that his family has with him, often considers himself a burden, trying one day to pay back his parents for taking care of them, unable to understand that his parents unconditionally love him. He also has a tendency to put others on himself, often to his detriment. Jusis points out that his tendency to do so is more than abnormal than virtuous. He holds himself back when struggling due to the fear of losing control and accidentally hurting someone with his power. It is able to slowly match its flaws within Cold Steel I & II, finally learn to accept the love that people have for him and accept his unknown power extension himself. He's too defensive against Elise, saying: he doesn't just let every man be with him and just snaps even the slightest violations (like a simple stroke) against him. Rean matures a lot after the events of the first two Cold Steel games. Although his main personality is more or less the same, it is largely tempered by his experience in the military. He understands more about the people and the world around him, and makes a point of looking at things beneath the surface. He is more forthright than before, and he tends to pronounce uncomfortable truths rather than benes them (for example, when he tells Kurt his sword skills and lack of resolve are not enough to help him with his mission). As a teacher, his kindness and simple nature are complemented by high expectations and a desire to maximize the potential of each student. He fiercely defends them, and while this often manifests itself in the desire to help them overcome any obstacle that may be on their way, his over-protection can lead to his ability to make questionable decisions to ensure their safety. Within Cold Steel III, he learns to evade his overs defense against them and truly trusts his students as comrades. He shows great concern to students outside of their class as well and is always willing to lend an ear to any student who needs it. Rean is surprisingly competitive, often putting his all winning races. He admonishes Group B of his kurdish class in his previous field study and encourages them to work together, turning to their pride. He expresses a sleaze when he loses his opponent during minigames. He also strongly believes in diligentness, and although he is always willing to help students in need, he also expects his students to work hard to achieve their goals. Rean is fond of fishing and enjoys snowboarding; he even helped build Ymir's snowboarding course as a child. The indescribable R costume sets cold steel II & III to make it clear that Rean was quite imaginative as a child. Childhood greeting, beautiful. Can I have a moment of your time? Gilath and Kasia Osborne with their newborn son Rean. (Cold Steel Trails II) Rean Schwarzer was born in May s.1187 as the son of military officer Gilath Osborne and his wife Kasia. Lianne is watching over Giliaa, Kasia and Ran. In his early childhood, Rean grew up in Heimdaller, where he lived peacefully with his parents. Their peaceful life abruptly ended when General Rudolf Arundel and his noble faction in the Imperial Army aggressively took a pro-war stance only to make a name for themselves. [1] Osborne has learned of his plans, but may do more than warn his fellow officers. [1] Osborne holds the mortally wounded Reani, with a dying wound by his side. Cold Steel IV) Arundel's faction responded by having a similar jaeger corps attack on their home in the suburb of Heimdallr. Late nights, his house was on fire. [1] Osborne sped home and found Rean fatally wounded, invaded by debris near his heart. Rean's mother begged, with her last breath, to make sure that their son at least survived the attack. [1] Ishmelga welcomes Osborne. (Trails of cold steel II) Osborne begged both the goddess and the demon to save his son. [2] Ishmelga responded by saying that he had been waiting for these words for two centuries. [2] Osborne sacrificed his mind and body to be the awakening of the ismelga-black Deus-Excellion jet-black Deus-Excellion. In return, Ishmelga secured The Rean's survival by transplanting Osborne's heart into Ran's body, an opportunity that was enabled by their wake-up show. [1] [2] There we are, the end of spoilers. Save time and there's a lot of me. Howdy, beautiful. Can I have a moment of your time? Keep in mind that cold steel II and III runway spoilers may occur in the following section. Click on [Show] on the right if the show needs to continue. Goodbye, amigosi! Baron Schwarzer took Ran to his household and raised the boy with his wife Lucia and their three-year-old daughter Elise. Because Rean had no memory before abandoning him, he had no idea if he was born at first with a noble, commoner, or even a Erebonian. This sparked some controversy among baron's fellow nobles and many rumors spread about Rean's son. Nonetheless, throughout Rean's upbringing, Schwarzers remained a kind and supportive family. In S.1196, at the age of 9, Rean experienced a traumatic incident. [Additional 3] [Note 2] When the monster approached his adoptive sister, she was overcome with overwhelming anger. Some power, called the power of his ogre, conquered his consciousness and brutally murdered the beast. Rean got scared. Although he grew up in a loving environment, he felt immense guilt for being a burden on his foster family. Next year, S.1197, Yun Ka-fai takes On Rean as a student. [4] [5] [6] [Additional 3] Yun Ka-fai taught him eight pages one blade school fencing in the hopes that Rean could finally overcome his fear and master his power. Unfortunately Rean couldn't do it and Yun Ka-Fai had to cut his training short, even though he gave him the title at The Beginner. Trails of Cold Steel After struggling to find a way to follow in life, Rean decides to enroll at Thors Military Academy, trying to distance himself from his foster family and become a soldier in the Army S.1204. He is placed in Class VII and sent to different locations as part of his field research. Rean is in the class who does not join an out-of-school club. Instead, he helps out with the Towa Herschel-led student council with applications from both the academy and Trista. Despite his classmates, Rean, be on good terms with all of them. Take Ymir for a minor respite during the class visit[7][8][9][10][Annex 3][Note 3][Note 3] Rean receives a straight-back mid-level scrol from Teo Schwarzer from Yun Ka-fai. [9] [Additional 3] 127. On the night of the Thors Military Academy Festival, a week before the beginning of the Erebonia Civil War, Rean and his classmates will conclude their trial against Loa Erebonius and discover Valimar, ashen knight in the depths of the old schoolhouse. [11] [Note 4] Rean's peaceful life academy breaks down on 30 October, S.1204. Class VII listens to Chancellor Osborne's national address on a radio show aimed at Crossbell's illegal declaration of independence and the subsequent destruction of the Garrelia Fortress, when the Chancellor was nabbed by Imperial Liberation Front Leader C, who was a senior and classmate of The Rean crew armbrust all along. Shocked by these events, Class VII witnesses how the Noble Alliance takes control of Heimdallr through military power and marched to conquer Trista. [12] Outside the Trista walls, class VII fights the invading Panzer Soldats. Scarlet's Spiegel corners them, and when Rean starts pulling out the power of his ogre, he hears an inlet voice, asking him: Do you want power?. His surroundings fade, and he finds himself in a dark room with only a voice asking him to sign a contract. The darkness comes out of Celine, who has a human voice explaining Rean must shout out the name she learned during the trial against Loa Erebonius: Valimar. [12] The power of Deus-Excellion is evident when Rean takes control of The Chooser and easily dominates Scarlet. His victory is short-lived, but as Crow Armbrust makes his appearance on the battlefield. Crow shows himself to be Ordine's rival, Azure Knight. Under a belt with three years of experience, Crow Ordine pushed into his second form and effortlessly beat his former classmate. Valimar advises immediate tactical withdrawal, and Rean's co-pilot, Celine, instructs Deus-Excellion to move as far away from the battlefield as possible. After the words of the person with whom Rean spent the festival at the bonfire, Valimar sets the course for Mount Eisengard, marking the end of the cold steel trails. The Trails of Cold Steel II Rean's Awakening, almost a month later, marks the beginning of The Trails of Cold Steel II. [6] Irritated and irritated, he ignores Celine's remarks and marches his way down the Eisengard mountain range. He has stopped his tracks from The Magic Knight and, with Valimar depleted by his mana, is forced to fight a giant on his own. Before things go wrong he was rescued by Toval Randonneur, who is joined by Elise Schwarzer and Princess Alfin Reise Armor. They send him back to Ymir, where he reunites with his parents. They're reporting him about the civil war that's been going on for a month, and Rean's worried about the friend he had, pulled away. The next day, The Northern Jaegers hired Ymir to attack Kreuzen Province and was severely wounded in the act. Rean, returning to Ymir Canyon, reacts to the situation by unleashing his ogre power until he is stopped by Elise. Noble Alliance agent Altina Orion successfully kidnaps Rean's sister and princess. The next day, Rean and Toval prepared to find Rean friends. With valimar's access to the Spirit Paths and the help of Toval, Claire Rieveldt, and Sharon Kreu reader, it takes Rean ten days to find and collect the entire Class VII (minus the Crow). Soon after their reunification, the Noble Alliance invades Ymir and invites Ran aboard its flagship Pantagruel. Their goal to continue with Rean to join his cause backfires when Rean decides to break into the room alfin was held and tries to escape with him to Pantagruel. When his ogre's power subsides, he will be s stops by the strongest members of the Alliance on the ship's deck. Their endgame has become a stalemate with Prince Oliver on board the Brave Files of Amor. Vita Clotilde decides it's best for both sides of their way. The next day, Prince Oliver will be entrusted with a bold Class VII and the captain's duty will be transferred from Victor S. Arseid to Towa Herschel. [14] Deciding that thors students would take care of East Erebonia as they head west. With Rean serving as his leader, The Brave picks up applications from places throughout East Erebonia and even visit Alster in the west of Erebonia. [15] [16] [Additional 4] [Note 5] on 30 December S.1204, two months into the Civil War, returns to Class VII Trista and relieves it of the influence of the nobles. The academy itself is kept by the Order of the Lion, students of noble origin under the leadership of Patrick T. Hyarms. The next morning, all thors students prepare for the invasion of imperial villa on the karel, where Emperor Eugent Reise Armor III, Empress Priscilla, Heimdallr governor carl Regnitz and Elise Schwarzer are being held. As soon as they manage to liberate the imperial family, the Castle of Hell, where the Vallfame Palace was originally located, will appear. The missing imperial family, Crown Prince Cedric Reise Arnor, a missing member are kept in the throne hall of the castle. After emerging victorious against Vita Clotilde and Crow Armbrust, Rean calls Valimar his final duel against the Crow-led Ordine. Rean wins the duel and both Crow and Vita prepare to retreat when Duke Croire de Cayenne, insists on continuing his operation and forcing Cedric into Testa-Rossa, Vermillion Knight. His exposure to the blood of the imperial family triggers this curse, and it becomes a catastrophic vermiliontpts. By joining forces, Rean and Crow manage to win by accident, but at a high price. In his latest attack, vermilion's apocalypse pierces Crow's chest, wounding him fatally. [21] In the course of the dazzling events, noble alliance Rufus Albarea reveals himself to be a key member of the Ironbloods, after which Osborne reveals he is alive. He orders Rufus to invade Crossbell and take over the Ouroboros Phantasmal Blaze plan. Rean rushes to the Chancellor, grabs his collar and asks why he's still alive. Rufus puts his hand on Rean's shoulder, reminding him that he plays an important factor in Osborne's decision-making. Rean had remembered that before Schwarzers was adopted, he fell into the snow by a man whose face he no longer knew. It was at this point that it dawned on him that the father who abandoned him twelve years ago was Gilath Osborne, who confirmed his descent. After the events of the Erebonia Civil War, Reani is recognized as Ashen Chevalier, who ended the Civil War. He enters a depressive state because of the death of Crow Armbrust and the growing dominance of the Empire, but he is able to get out of it with the support of Thors' friends and teachers. In the end, he makes the decision to serve as an army officer in the Erebonia Army, despite reservations, ultimately doing so for greater good. Trails of Cold Steel III While all remaining Class VII members go their way, Rean decides to finish his second year and graduated from the academy. In his second year, he develops a close bond with Patrick T. Hyarms, who graduates with him. After graduating and in his second year, despite rejecting offers to join the Imperial Army in Erebonia, he still takes orders from the Imperial government because of his altruistic nature, often working with Altina Orion. During these commandments, Rean notices that the power of his ogre is gradually becoming stronger. During his time in the Northern War, when Ouroborod unleashed the archaism move, Rean lost control of his power when he unleashed it in a desperate (but successful) attempt to keep archaism from harming civilians. After that incident, Rean decided not to rely on power. (Later in S.1206, he slowly regained control of it thanks to his help with the pendant he received from Emma Millstein, and special training with his acquaintance, Celine). Soon after graduation, in the spirit of his efforts to take the class, Rean decides to become a tutor at the newly established Thors Branch Campus. His collaborators include Towa Herschel, his old upper-class wife; Randy Orlando, who despite being an SSS member and Lloyd's partner quickly befriended Rean; Michael Irving, captain of the RMP aft; and their main one is Aurelia Le Guin, former captain of the Noble Union. Rean will be a new class VII home-room teacher. Initially composed of Juna Crawford, a girl of great animosity towards Rean and the Empire over her annexation of Crossbell (her county), but who eventually warms up her; Kurt Vander, a young descendant of vander school who joined Thors at his brother's request Vander after losing his guardianship over nobility; And Altina, Rean's former reconnaissance division associate. Thanks to his excellent grades as a student, Rean is able to convey his subject, the data of imperial history very easily. He takes care of his students closely. The school must undergo periodic field exercises, all of which (such as Rean's field studies during his time as a student) end up involving some degree of danger, especially at the hands of Ouroboros agents. During The Field Studies in Rean, he reunites with his former friends from the original Class VII to see what they have been with, and also meets a number of new allies outside the class VII and old new allies. During field studies, Rean is constantly puzzled by the identity of an enigmatic man known as Azure Siegfried, who looks and sounds almost exactly like the supposedly dead Crow Armbrust. Between the second and third field studies, two other students are taken to the class: Musse Egre, a well-informed noble girl who is in great love with Rean; and Ash Carbide, a smart but arrogant young man on the agenda. In Heimdall's latest field study, Emperor Eugent Reise Arnor III Rean informs The Truth about Ereboniannedness, a malevolent presence in a country responsible for much of its militaristic history. Soon after, Ash, controlled by the same curse, shoots and almost kills the emperor. This leads to the appearance of gral of Erebos, and the shooting framed Osborne and his Ironbloods as an attack on a Calvardian spy that is used to garner support for the war. With the help of both old and new Class VII - minus the arrested Ash, kidnapped by Altina and Millium Orion, who stands with her husband Ironbloods - Rean leads the charge of Gral. On the way, it's past ouroboros agents, jaegers, Siegfried and Iron Blood. By the time they reach gral's bottom, only he, Juna, Kurt and Musse will remain. Here they face Gilath Osborne and Black Alberich, the commander of Gnomes, as well as Cedric Reise Arnor, who is holding the kidnapped Altina prisoner. After fighting an unnamed one, the purpose of the capture of Altina is made clear: he, along with Millium, is one of two creatures created by the Black Workshop who is suited to being destroyed to unleash the curse. To prevent Altina from sacrificing, Millium walks in and allows the elta to murder herself - it amplified the initiator's Zero Sword. Seeing Millium die in front of him, Rean sends him into a state of shock; he (with Valimar) takes the sword and his power now out of control, he kills the beast. The death of the beast causes Great Twilight, an event that helped garner public support for World War II and created the curse of power. Later infuriated Rean's movements attack Osborne and Alberich, but he is restrained by Crow (who is now back to his memories), Rutger and Arianrhod, all of which invite Divine Knights. Cedric and Osborne are now calling out their Divine Knights, making six gifts. For a moment, Rean's mind will come back, and he wonders what he just did. The game ends with Osborne holding Rean to his grasp, declaring that he will now end this fairytale. Cold Steel IV tracks Welcome to the middle, beautiful. Can I have a moment of your time? Please note the spoilers Trails of Cold Steel IV may appear in the following section. Click on [Show] on the right if the show needs to continue. Goodbye, amigosi! After his capture by Osborne, Rean is imprisoned at the Black Workshop, an increasingly confusing process. After monitoring the location of the workshop, the original and new VII classes invaded the workshop using the spirit trails of Ini. Their presence manages to unleash something within Rean to get rid of their shackles as Celine comes to him with concern, which they encounter with Crow and Duvalie, who have decided over. Rean heads to The Electr, where he finds himself with his students, but ignores their presence until he realizes that they intend to get in his way. After weakening, Rean hears the thoughts of his students and friends, realizing that they care about him when he returns to normal, even though his hair and eyes remain white and red respectively. After they escape from the workshop, Rean Crow and Duvaliel ask to join in, but they both refuse, claiming that their rivalry will begin soon. Eryn's wishes also give him a new form to help suppress the power of his ogre, seeing that his previous one has been damaged outside of repair. Facing Crow and Duvalie at Bryonia Island, Rean tries to convince Crow once more, but he refuses. He and Valimar emerge victorious from the rivalry, but refuse to accept Ordine because it would kill Crow. It forces Crow to join him with the reluctant Duvali. Along with his classmates, friends, and students, Rean accepts Musse's invitation to join a secret meeting in Pantagruel. There he meets Estelle Bright and reconciles with Lloyd Bannings. He will also meet with Cassius, who will inform him that the master gave him, which he will discuss when the time was right. Later, Rean decides to join Prince Olivert's Trips to Arnor's Shining Wings movement. He helps fend off the common Ouroboros and Red Constellation attack, later scolding Musse for trying a reckless solution to resolve the situation. Before the world war began, Rean and his friends and allies went to Mishelam Wonderland, spending what he initially thought was his last day without regrets. Cassius, seeing that Rean is ready, begins the trial that Yun Ka-fai had prepared. Rean successfully completes his trial and is given the title Divine Blade, but is unable to decide the sing-off to go next. During this time, Rean beats other Awakens. But by winning his last battle against Ishmelga, he will take over not only his power, but also the curse. There are two In Normal Ending, Rean, Crow and Millium Saiceike mselves making the curse into space and back to earth like nothing but feathers. Filling in certain required data[Note 6] allows for a true end. At the true end, Lean uses the Earth cage[JP 3] He got from Argres to prepare for the curse, prompting Ishmelga to appear as a complete great. Together with the original and new Class VII, bracer guild and special support section, He protects Isheelga-Loge, who strives to fly as a thoght-form; Rean is tracking and destroying it. Osborne then apps for the last time to have a brief but heartfelt talk with his son. Before they exchange their farewells, Osborne reminds Ran of the letters he received from Yun Ka-Fi, six years before that: in the dark, even in the shortest moment. I believe that you and it compares who souls are intertwined with yours's ability to do so.
